Dear Sir Schulz,

My name is Yassine Kalaa, I am sixteen years old and I am a high school student. I am writing to you in order to raise the issue of climate change and global warming.

The Maldives are composed of many islands which are unsafe knowing that sea levels are raising due to the melting of the ice and global warming. I went there last summer, it was a nice experience. This is a beautiful land. We have to tackle climate change to save this country, to save our life and our planet.

To cope with this problem, we must reduce the emission of CO₂ with the closing of nuclear powerplants like in Germany. We must use more and more renewable energy since the other energies pollute the environment. We must build green cities which are composed of many green places, in which transports do not pollute such as public transports, bikes, etc. For example, Norwegian people are very involved to reduce pollution. Indeed they prefer using their bikes or public transports instead of using their cars.

As a conclusion, I want you to make new laws in Europe to fight climate change and corporations which pollute a lot should get taxes.

Yours faithfully,

Yassine Kalaa
